

Every life
is a story
that's waiting to be written.

A new heart
helped me rewrite mine.

Heart failure? At my age?
I was shattered. Would my life end even before I'd begun living?

Fortunately, someone found the heart to give me life.
Now I not only celebrate every special occasion, but also every single day that I live.

But there are others who are much less fortunate; they're still waiting for donor organs. And their hope lies in you supporting organ donation. Because it's the only gift that can help them live on.
