Public campaign programme targeted at residents of HDB heartlands
- MOH’s public campaign programme is an initiative to raise awareness on the benefits of a healthier eating and living in Singapore, and to encourage healthy eating and healthy behaviour.
- The programme aims to promote a community of people who lead a healthy lifestyle through a series of healthy cooking and physical activity sessions.

Inclusion of the risk-taking minority and elite groups
- The programme also targets the risk-taking minority and elite groups who may adopt motivational interviewing as an approach to influence positive behavior.
- It will also provide training and support to Moh’s community health workers to deliver motivational interviewing in different settings.
- The programme is being implemented in collaboration with the Ministry of Education (MOE) and the National Council for Social Services (NCSS).

EQUIPMENT
- The programme will involve the use of lancets and test strips - for diabetics who are on insulin, to help with the cost of disease management.
- MOH is working with National Council of Social Services to list health-related consumables – namely, lancets and test strips.
- MOH will develop a care team education framework to equip professionals and lay volunteers with essential skills to empower their patients.

Supportive Environment
- MOH has introduced incentives aimed at the general population to encourage them to adopt healthier behaviors.
